BEAUTY.

Beauty was born of world's desire For the wondrous water, the wandering fire,
Under the arch of her hurrying feet She has trodden a world full of bitter sweet.

The blood of the violet is in her veins, Her pulses have the passion of April rains,
Out of the heart of a satin flower God has sent her eyelids in one sweet hour.

Out of the wind he made her feet
And feet that might be lovely and luring
And feet that might be lovely and luring
Out of a cloud he wove her hair Heavy and black with the rain held there.

What's her name? There's none that I know,
Mother-of-Mischief, or Mouth-of-Rose, What is her pathway? None may tell, But it climbs to heaven and it dips to hell.

The garment on her is mist and fire, Anger and sorrow and heart's desire,
Her forehead gleams with a misty glow,
The garland to her is loveliness-mist.

Her girle is of the best of stone, And one dark rose for her flower has been sown, Filled to the rim with the strength of the sun,
A passionate rose, and only one.

The bird in her breast sings all day long
A wonderful, wistful, whispering song,
The song that is of all passions thing, None knows it—wistful or born with wings.

A SONG.

(From Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister")
From the mountains to the champagne, By the glens and hills along, Comes a rustling and a tramping, Comes a motion as of song.
And this undetermined roving, This undetermined roving, Life's no resting, but a moving, Let life be led on lead!

Keep not standing fixed and rooted, Bristle valiantly against the change, Head and hand, wherever thou foot it,
And stand where'er thou foot it,
In each land, in each day,
We are gay, whither betide:
To give room for wandering is it That the world we made so wide.

husband." "What number?" "Oh, the number of your own, you know, you impertinent thing!"—Judge.

"The young man was disconsolate.
Said he: 'I asked her if I could see her home.' "Why, certainly, she answered. 'I will come to your picture of it.'—Ladies' Home Journal.

"What did that man mean by saying he would not be a candidate?" "He will stand and run." "He will stand and run." "That is time for his friends to get busy and remind the country how much it needs him."—Washington Star.

"You seem to enjoy taking your wife to the theater?" "Yes," replied Mr.
Meekton. "I intend to see her to the theater every night, and I am going to take her to the theater every night."

"Oh, I hear you are going to marry Mr. Dimple." "Yes, just as soon as I get my degree." "I congratulate you, my dear. He's one of the nicest husbands I ever had."—Philadelphia Record.

in 1910 500,000 tons of meat were delivered.

There are few beggars in Switzerland, and two-fifths of the adult population have deposits in banks.

On the prairie lands in the western provinces of Canada upward of one million Americans have settled.

Painting is a loss of consciousness due to the dimming of blood supply to the brain. It usually occurs in crowds or in crowded halls, theaters, and churches, where the atmosphere is close and the air foul.

The province of Saskatchewan is the greatest flax-producing province in the west and there is reported a surplus of flax this year because of the bad harvest weather. This, however, is offset to some degree by the high prices that prevail.

Sugar beets in Canada from the 12-600 acres this season are expected to yield 9,000 long tons of sugar, against 7,771 tons from 10,500 acres last year.
Canada imported 174,165 tons of sugar and sugar, valued at $15,110,746, in the fiscal year ended March 31, 1911.

Visitors to the mosque of St. Sophia in Constantinople notice as soon as they enter a beautiful fragrance pervading the entire building. The solution lies in the fact that when it was built, 1,000 years ago, the stones and bricks were laid in mortar mixed with a solution of musk.

A Paris paper brings a statement that a group of French and Brazilian capitalists, representing a capital of 40,000,000 francs, has formed the Societe Immobiliere de Sao Paulo to acquire 12,000,000 square meters (126-168,000 square feet), in the capital of the state of Sao Paulo.

The Nippon Yusen Kaisha, the only Japanese line of passenger and freight carriers which maintains a regular service south of the Equator, is planning to further extend its sphere of operations and has been reaching out for what is declared to be a profitable business to be had with the French possessions in the South seas.

France is the great center of the wine industry of the world. It is the largest producer of wine, the largest consumer, the largest exporter, and strange to say, the largest importer.
From the peculiar characteristics of the soil, the general equality of the climate, and the industry of the vineyarders, France is enabled to produce many special varieties of wine of the highest degree of excellence.

An official publication of the Dominion forestry branch of the department of the interior says: "The original timber area, including semi-traceless lands, was approximately 1,300,000 square miles; 85,000 square miles have been cleared for settlement, and 100,000 square miles have been cut over by timbermen, leaving a timber area yet untouched of 1,100,000 square miles."

THE WHITE SISTER AT POLIO'S.

Viola Allen's Wonderful Dramatic Success Comes Next.

This "White Sister" to be presented at Polio's, the biggest and most important things they have attempted. It deals with one of the most powerful and telling subjects possible, and cannot fail to create a positive sensational here, as it has everywhere else. The play is a dramatization of the late Dr. Marion Crawford's famous novel of the same name, and some idea of its importance and the strength of its characters may be gained from the fact that in addition to Miss Viola Allen in the title role, such distinguished players as William Farnum and James O'Neill were engaged to play respectively the leading male role and that of the priest. It is religious in tone and atmosphere, yet powerfully dramatic, the characters are presented as company as now constituted should be not only a success, but a positive sensation.

The title role, that of the White Sister, is a tremendous and compelling characterization, and moves through a series of the most surprising situations ever given to the modern stage.
The Sister, overwhelmed by her great love for a man, sacrifices every human feeling for the sake of the church, church, is tempted, coerced, coaxed, tricked and finally forced to the very point of yielding to her lover, yet her purity, goodness and faith sustain her to a triumphant victory for the church.
It is a play that cannot be adequately described, but it is a play that Miss Victoria Montgomery in Miss Allen's original part will have one of the greatest roles of her career, and all who have seen her in emotional and dramatic roles can realize in advance with what cleverness she will portray the character. Miss Moore will play the opposite male role, one that will call for the best that he has in him, and that she has already shown himself unusually skilled for.

BREED THEATER.

"A Southern Soldier's Sacrifice," Feature Picture.

With every seat taken and the corridors packed with eager patrons Breed theater started its afternoon performance yesterday and before the exhibition was over hundreds had been turned away, unable to even gain admission. Perhaps it was the extra attractive and attractive programme offered for the balance of the week and perhaps it was the excellent reputation the Breed enjoys for its presenting the best in motion pictures, that served to bring so many hundreds of delighted patrons to its doors, and as a result they were there, and as usual the immense throng was handled with ease and without contention.

The Southern Soldier's Sacrifice, an unusually excellent southern story, appealed to everyone, as being a beautiful film-drama and revealing the story of the two brothers who loved the same girl, in a straightforward, interesting manner. The magnificent southern scenery and the beautiful exhibition was over hundreds had been turned away, unable to even gain admis-

NEXT WEEK AT THE AUDITORI- UM.

A crackling vaudeville and motion picture bill will appear at the Auditorium the first half of next week, headed by the "Three O'Connor Sisters" and "At the Bottom of the Sea", respectively. The first is a recognized act presented by three pretty singing and dancing girls, richly costumed and well selected for their specialties.
Sketch, Harry Brooks, a very clever blackface comedian and heavyweight singer, will be the first attraction, and will add both comedy and variety to the bill. St. Stephens, the original Barnum & Bailey farmer, will be on hand with his corn and corn, and is one of the best when it comes to card manipulating.

"At the Bottom of the Sea" is a very interesting motion picture depicting a very exciting story centered around the life of a United States submarine boat, and from the time it is launched until the scenes are taken when the boat is far beneath the surface of the water.
Two full reels are shown, and the photoplay is intensely interesting and exciting throughout. It is a very perfect love story, and you will like it better than the best book you ever read.

New London Looking

After Its Boys

to tell in the superior court what he knew of bad sidewalks in New London in a damage suit brought against the city for damages sustained by a woman who was injured by reason of a defective sidewalk when Mr. Armstrong was New London's chief magistrate. The jury heard the evidence of the difficulties he had in getting the city to improve its sidewalks, and to perform his duty as interested by the mayor. He testified that the sidewalks were in such a bad condition that claims for damages were numerous, and that as a result, and after a bitter fight, the city council of common council finally passed a resolution to appoint a commissioner, and that then the sidewalks received more attention. He testified that he was not a very good better sidewalks at that time and that in the winter time they were not properly cleared from snow and ice.

If the present mayor of New London was called into court to testify as to the condition of the sidewalks at the present time, he would not be able to aid the seeker of damages for alleged injuries in a similar case, as there is no testimony that has been given as to sidewalks in New London, which is due to Mayor Mahan's plan of progression.

He, like Mayor Armstrong, realized that the improvement of the sidewalks, but he did not put the responsibility up to the highway commissioner. No doubt Mayor Mahan at it in the effective. If not the way that would have been approved by Mr.
Armstrong, and succeeded. Mr. Mahan had his own opinion, and some very strong ones, in his progressiveness and aggressiveness in the sidewalk matter, but he was not a very good better sidewalks were realized.

When Mr. Armstrong was mayor almost every day's progress was suggested, right or wrong, and he was opposed, and nearly all his plans were defeated. In many instances Mr.
Mahan was more conservative and position to Mayor Armstrong and his ideas of public management of Mr.
Armstrong's business administration, which was alleged to be conservative and safe. Naturally when Mayor Ma-hann commenced his progressive work for the city, he was met with opposition to Mr. Mahan's seems to have been the most successful. But in the words of an editor of a local newspaper used to put it many years ago: "Wait and see."
